

Community Supervision and Corrections Week July 20–26, 2025

Each year across the State of Texas, we dedicate a week to recognize the professionals who serve in Pretrial, Probation, and Parole Supervision and the vital work they perform. The week of July 20–26, 2025, provides an opportunity to honor those who devote countless hours to enhancing public safety while making a positive difference in the lives of individuals under supervision, their families, victims, and the communities they serve.

The 106th Community Supervision and Corrections Department (Adult Probation) proudly serves the counties of Dawson, Gaines, Garza, and Lynn. Currently, the department supervises 1,595 individuals throughout the district.

The dedicated staff of the 106th CSCD includes:

- Director: Julie Miller
- Community Supervision Officers: Lisa Anderson, Manuela Carrasco, Jessica Ramirez, Rosana Rodriguez, and Gloria Zacharias
- Pretrial Officer: Lety Martinez
- Senior Administrative Assistants: Linda Martinez and Kortni Pool
- Administrative Assistants: Nancy Richardson, Vanessa Taylor, Lydia Trevino, and Gracie Zapata

Together, these professionals uphold the laws of the State of Texas and the United States with integrity, professionalism, dignity, and respect. Their work extends far beyond supervision. They build strong partnerships with law enforcement agencies, reentry organizations, victim advocates, treatment providers, families, and many others who support the community supervision process while promoting accountability.

The expectations placed upon community supervision professionals are significant. Their responsibilities include conducting investigations, supervising individuals on community supervision, identifying and coordinating resources, promoting rehabilitation, monitoring compliance with court-ordered conditions, and addressing the unique needs of each person under supervision. This work requires sound judgment, professionalism, and constant awareness of the risks inherent in the profession. Remaining vigilant while treating all individuals with fairness and respect allows these professionals to serve their communities effectively and safely.

During Community Supervision and Corrections Week, July 20–26, 2025, we encourage everyone to recognize and thank the dedicated professionals who have committed their careers to the field of community corrections in the State of Texas. Their service strengthens our communities, enhances public safety, and positively impacts countless lives. They are an exceptional group of public servants and an essential part of our agency's success.
